ADA BOY MAKES GOOD IN FRANCE

FOLLOWING LETTER TO HIS MOTHER TELLS OF SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENTS IN FOREIGN ATHLETICS.

To further more efficient work along athletic lines, a meeting of the University Athletic Committee was recently held. At this meeting various plans were discussed and a more co-operative organization effected. Lieut. Reed, who has had a great deal of experience in baseball in the Western league, has been appointed the acting captain of the team and will have complete charge of the organization and whipping into shape of the Varsity. Sgt. Miller was selected to take charge of the track field work, Sgt. Mac Neal, champion of the Western Conference, chosen to lead our tennis teams to victory, while Lt. Vandiver was elected as the head of our basketball club. That these men will do their utmost for the success of their respective branches and phases of athletics, no one doubts. However, remember that these men will have material with which to work. Lend them all the assistance possible.

Also at this meeting steps were taken for the furtherance of the Intercompany Baseball League. Companies 2 and 4 and Companies 3 and 5 were combined, owing to the scarcity of men.

In France at the University of Montpellier Lieut. Everett Reed is adjutant of the A. E. F. student body consisting almost entirely of officers who are required to have college credits to enter. Everett is taking a French course, is captain and coach of the University base ball team. Each week-end they are sent out to play competitive games with other teams in France, Italy and other countries.—The Soldier-Student, Montpellier, France.

Everett Reed was at one time an employee at the News and we follow his advancement and development with a keen, personal interest. He has many friends in Ada who will be interested in reading the following letter to his mother, Mrs. W. L. Reed of this city.

"Thursday, May 29, 1919.

"Mother: "I am traveling practically all the time, and do not have much time to write. As manager and coach of the University base ball team I am very busy. We have played 12 games and have only lost 2 games. We are on top. I expect to win the championship and pennant of the Inter-Collegiate University base ball league.

"I sent you cards from Italy, Nice, Barritz, Bordeaux and other points.

"Perhaps I will go to England next month and also Brussels.

"When I have finished here I am ordered to report back to the 3rd army headquarters in Coblenz, Germany.

"Well it doesn't matter we will all be home by the first of September. Hope you are all well. You did not mention in your letters regarding the pictures I sent you. I will try and write as often as possible.

"Love to all.

"EVERETT."

Will Preach Constructive Development, Not Tragedy in Advertising Oklahoma

"The State Association of Commercial Executives, of which I happen to have the honor of being president, is engaging in a work of great importance to Oklahoma and if the plans of the organization can be carried out the state will receive much valuable and desirable publicity," said Secretary Douglas of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce in his weekly talk to the newspaper writers.

States Resources.

"When the state was divided into six districts, a director of the association elected from each district and a plan agreed upon whereby each director would compile a pamphlet of the resources of his particular district, this to later be edited by an editing committee, and from the six pamphlets a book compiled of the resources, developed and undeveloped, of the state for general circulation among people desiring reliable information about Oklahoma. The district pamphlets were to be distributed by commercial executives in the respective districts the larger or state book to be distributed by all commercial secretaries. By reason of the war and the necessary war work taken on by the commercial secretaries all over Oklahoma the compilation of the book was abandoned for the time, but at the recent meeting of the association at Oklahoma City the original plan was again discussed and a resolution prevailed to put it into execution at once.

No Provisions.

"Unfortunately, there is a provision in the constitution of Oklahoma which prohibits the expenditure of state funds for purposes of advertising the resources of Oklahoma, the result being that no comprehensive book on the state has ever been published and in this respect Oklahoma is far behind practically all of the other states of the union, which have under some name or other a publicity department through which is issued annually a state year book showing in detail and with numerous illustrations the possibilities along agricultural, horticultural, and stock raising lines, and also showing the mineral deposits of the state, the timber development possibilities, the mineral waters and all of the resources developed and undeveloped which might appeal to a prospective home seeker. In other states these books are issued under the authority of the state, are carefully edited; are beautifully illustrated, and are issued through commercial organizations and through the office of the secretary of state or immigration department and have been found of incalculable value to every state in which they are published. Because of the prohibition in Oklahoma this line of publicity must be taken up by some organization, and it has been thought that the commercial executives association organization is the proper channel through which the matter shall be handled.

Possibilities.

"As is well known, the northeastern part of the state is prolific in lead and zinc; has wonderful possibilities along agricultural, horticultural and stock raising lines; has mineral and artesian waters; good railroad facilities, and the development is only beginning.

Central East Section.

In the central east section, bordering the Arkansas, are immense deposits of marble, oil and gas, some lead and zinc, much coal, hardwood timber and splendid fruit lands. Practically none of these resources have ever been properly exploited and they are little known even to the citizens of Oklahoma living in the other sections of the state.

Southeastern.

In the southeastern section there are valuable deposits of asphalt, immense timber forests, fertile valleys, coal and land unusually well adapted to vineyards and orchards, with literally thousands of acres lying dormant because of the possibilities being unexploited.

North Central.

In the north central section of the state the oil and gas fields are

CLAUDE JONES FREED OF CHARGE OF ASSAULT

The case of the State against Claude Jones was heard before Justice Brown this morning. The state was represented by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney H. F. Mathis, while R. C. Roland represented Jones.

Jones testified that he was not guilty of striking his wife on the streets of Allen and brought in witnesses to prove his innocence. His wife acknowledged that in a fit of anger she had struck Jones over the head with a live chicken. A lady from Allen with whom Mrs. Jones stayed the night she claims Jones struck her testified that Mrs. Jones used language describing Jones that she could not repeat in court.

At the conclusion of the trial Judge Brown decided that Jones was not guilty of the charge and dismissed the case against him.

MRS. C. C. M'KEEL DELIGHTFUL HOSTESS

Mrs. Cora McKeel was a charming hostess Saturday and Sunday night when she presided over a house party and six o'clock dinner in her home at 117 East Tenth. Mrs. McKeel's son, Bill, was host at the morning breakfast hour at the Harris hotel. The forenoon was spent informally Bill was again host at the high noon hour when his guests were entertained at luncheon at Mrs. Land's lunch room. Saturday afternoon fond memories of the old swimming hole were rehearsed when Mrs. McKeel and Bill entertained their guests at the City Lake. Saturday evening a delightful dinner in six courses was served at seven.

The dining room was charming with daisies and sweet peas. Throughout the house beautiful golden hued daisies in heightened vases lent a charm to the last lengthening rays of sunshine which filtered in from the crimson west. Tiny button hole favors of pansies marked each guest's place.

Those enjoying this attractive party were: Misses Mae and Bernice Patrick, Fern Williams and Lorena Benton of Denison, Tex.; Miss Annette McFarland of Ladonia, Tex.; Messrs. Roy Coppers, Denison; Clyde Hear, Bonham, Tex.; Hazelwood and Loyd Cain of Ladonia, Tex. Besides the out of town guests for dinner were, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rogers, Mrs. S. W. Hill and daughter, Anna Laurie, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Wright and son Clyde, and C. H. Little of Ada.

WEIMAR, Sunday, June 22.—It is officially announced that Germany will sign.

GERMANS DENY CAUSING THE WAR

By the Associated Press. PARIS, June 23.—The German note to which the council of four replied today by rejecting suggestions for alteration of the treaty, declared that Germans regard the terms as impracticable and their signature is given under duress. The note concludes by saying the Germans will sign, with reservations relative to turning over those alleged to be guilty of crimes and the admission that Germany is guilty of causing the war.

ADA TAKES GAME FROM STONEWALL

LOCAL MEN WIN SECOND GAME OF SEASON IN FOURTEENTH INNING—LETS GO!

Yesterday our boys took a game from Stonewall. Victory came in the fourteenth inning; when a walk, a sacrifice and a hit netted two runs. The Stonewall boys threatened to tie the score but their roll only netted one run and Ada had the long end of a 5 to 4 score.

Ada was in the lead up to the seventh inning, but an error, followed by two hits, permitted Stonewall to run in two men. Ada evened the count in the eighth. Neither side threatened in the ninth so the long route was chosen.

The game was a pitcher's duel between Young of Ada, and Stegall, and another of his team mates, from Stonewall. Young had the edge on both of the Stonewall hurlers, but our boys were unable to hit when hits meant runs.

Both teams played first class ball from beginning to end. The playing of P. Young on third was one of the features of the game.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd, among them, about four score of the loyal Ada fans. A shower during the latter part of the first inning made the grounds heavy for a few innings, however, this did not last long.

We are in need of some real ball players, and we must have them soon. We are planning to have the opening game at home next week and would like to have more of the fellows out to practice. Our next work out will be Thursday afternoon at six o'clock. Let's all be there and get our team to working in big league style. We can't have a first class team unless we work together.

The suits for the team are expected to arrive this week. The suits will carry on the left arm a double a, the monogram of our city.

SIXTY DEAD AND MILLIONS LOSS

TERRIBLE STORM IN MINNESOTA TOWN LEAVES DEATH AND RUIN IN ITS WAKE.

By the Associated Press. EVANSVILLE, Minn., June 23.—Forty-seven persons are known to be dead, 160 injured and in emergency hospitals, and property valued at $6,000,000 destroyed is the result of yesterday's storm which swept through Fergus Falls. Relief work is under way. It is possible the death list may reach sixty when the ruins of Grand hotel have been thoroughly searched.

Hundreds Probably Killed.

ST. PAUL, June 23.—Only meager reports are available early today of the loss of life and property caused by the tornado at Fergus Falls last night. Probably 204 are killed and 700 injured. Telephone and telegraph wires are down and roads are impassable.

ADA MAY SECURE PRESIDING ELDER

At the morning service at the Methodist church yesterday a collection was taken to pay off the balance of $1,000 due on the church building. The money was entirely raised.

At a meeting of the directors of the church held immediately after the morning service the question of making an effort to have the presiding elder located at Ada was taken up. The presiding elder at present lives at Durant. There will be a meeting of the committee this week at Madill to decide on a permanent location for this pastor and Ada will endeavor to get it located here. J. A. Smith is the Ada representative. The directors voted unanimously to try to get the district headquarters located at Ada and agreed to give some $1600 toward paying for a parsonage, or 35 per cent of its cost. If Ada secures the presiding elder the name of the district will be changed to the Ada district.

BABY LOST ON MAIN LOOKING FOR WATER

Baby Lucile Ruth, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Ruth, was lost on Main street for about two hours last Saturday night.

Mr. Ruth, the father, is employed at the O. K. Meat Market and Mrs. Ruth had dropped into the Market for a visit with her husband, while little Ruth remained outside to play on the sidewalk, which is a regular habit with the child. On this occasion, however, Ruth decided she wanted a drink of good cold water and started down the street in search for same, asking everyone she met and at different business houses for the much desired drink. After having safely made the trip down Main street to the Frisco station without securing the much coveted drink the baby crossed the street at a perilous angle, picking her way between rushing automobiles and heavy wagons and teams. After reaching the opposite sidewalk safely, she began again the long, weary walk down the great white way only to find that the people on the south side couldn't understand her childish request any better than those on the north side of the street had been able to do. On reaching the Harris hotel corner, Ruth decided to turn south into the sidewalk was not so crowded, but as she crossed the alley between the hotel and the home of Frank Jackson, she missed the bright lights and, baby like, began to cry. Mr. Jackson and wife took the child into their home and telephoned police headquarters.

During all this time the mother naturally had been quite frantic and had instigated a strenuous search for her child and need we say here, safe again with mother, little Ruth could have all the water she wanted.

BRITISH FIGHT BOLSHEVIKI SHIP

By the Associated Press. HELSINGFORS, Thursday, June 19.—British warships Wednesday torpedoed the bolshevik armored cruiser Slayia.

The bolshevik battleship Andrei Pervovsanni is believed to have been sunk by a British torpedo near Kronstadt Thursday, according to a Finnish naval dispatch quoted in a Helsingfors cablegram to the Daily Mail.

LARGE MAJORITY VOTES TO ACCEPT TREATY; EXPRESS CONFIDENCE IN BAUER GOVERNMENT.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, June 23.—The German government, at Weimar has formally communicated its willingness to sign the peace terms unconditionally it was announced by the French foreign office this afternoon. The day and hour for signing is uncertain. It may take place Tuesday but more likely Wednesday. The Italian delegates, at present in Paris have been authorized to sign on Italy's behalf. This announcement removed the question which was expected to delay the signing. The German note of acceptance, it is said, is couched in such language that it maintains the German position that the terms are "peace of violence."

BERLIN, June 23.—The German national assembly, by a vote of 237 to 138, has decided to sign the peace treaty. The assembly gave a vote of confidence to the Bauer government by a vote of 236 to 89.

FRISCO STRIKES CAR; 1 KILLED; 1 INJURED

The Frisco passenger train No. 507 while speeding on her way southward Sunday afternoon collided with a five passenger Ford car one mile west of Bryant. Miss Pauline Lockhart was killed instantly, Miss Maude Deen and Mrs. Myers, the two other occupants of the car, were seriously injured. Mrs. Myers is the wife of the superintendent of the cotton oil mill at Weleetka and Miss Deen is the daughter of a prominent grocery man in Weleetka. Miss Lockhart lived four miles west of Weleetka.

The train was going at the rate of fifty miles an hour when the accident occurred. It seems that the women in the car were attempting to cross the track ahead of the train which resulted in a collision.

MAN DISAPPEARS; FOUL PLAY FEARED

The sheriff's department has been asked to help solve the mystery of John Berton King, who suddenly disappeared from Ada Sunday night, June 15th. The father of King was up from Roff yesterday and says they cannot understand his actions and fear foul play has befallen him.

John Berton King was employed as a printer in the office of the Tupelo Tribune at Tupelo, Oklahoma. He has a wife and two children who live in that town. He came to Ada with Elvin Eads, editor of the Tribune, and two other young men on the west-bound Katy Sunday, June 15th. He stayed here until train time that night with the other men. When it was near time for the train to leave one of the members of the party had not arrived and King went in search of him. He never returned from the search, missed the train and nothing has been seen or heard of him since.

A report gained circulation last week that a man by the name of King was traveling in a car near Stratford and ran into a bridge which threw him from the car and rendered him unconscious. It was said he was taken to the home of Joe Clarke where he had remained since. His father called Mr. Clarke yesterday and learned that no such man had been seen in that community and that no man had been hurt out there.

The officers are rendering every assistance possible in the effort to find the missing man, and anyone knowing his whereabouts will confer a great favor by informing his parents or the officers at Ada.

A good crowd of Woodmen Circle ladies came to Ada from Stratford yesterday for the unveiling of the monument to Mrs. Oneal. They were assisted by about ten of the ladies of Ada. After the unveiling the ladies from Stratford were entertained by the Circle of Ada. The day was inspiring and beneficial to all.

No Dress Reform for Me!

Mr. Irvin S. Cobb in his discussion of comfortable habiliments for men entirely overlooked the fact that some men are not built on his ample lines. The dress he proposes will do very well for the large waist, the full calf, and the well-rounded neck, such as Mr. Cobb possesses, but for the man who has no hips, who is a straight line from top to bottom, who has a spindling shank, and a scrawny, elongated neck, with a protruding Adam's apple, the body covering with which the American man adorns himself today is far and away the best.

Take myself, for instance, in contrast with Irvin Cobb. I rise almost six feet in the air, but I weigh only one hundred and thirty-five pounds with all my clothes on. I am a bean pole with no billowy curves on which to hang sartorial garments. My neck extends above my shoulders like the long end of the pole above the cross bar on which is suspended the coat of the scarecrow. I have a conspicuous Adam's apple that flutters up and down every time I swallow. I have two bony pipe stems upon which I walk when they are flattened out for feet at the bottom.

With such proportions I am very anxious, as anyone can believe, after reading the above specifications, to cover all the defects. I shudder at the thought of a belt, which Mr. Cobb says is nature's method of upholding the nether garments. I am comfortable only in suspenders, for if you put a belt on a pole it has nowhere to stop when the weight of the aforesaid nether garments is pulling it down. I sometimes am foolhardy enough to try a belt, but I soon find that I am walking on the bottoms of my trousers, and all the time I am consumed with the fear that if I don't keep my hands clutched in my pockets I will find myself walking out of my pants. I have dreamed of being on the street clad only in my underwear, but the dream was horrible enough, I don't want it to happen in broad daylight, outside of my own bedroom. So give me the old-fashioned galluses.

I like the high stiff collar, too, for when I do not cover up the isthmus that extends from between my shoulder blades to the base of my skull, I exhibit myself as an entertaining freak for the children. They like to see the valve, which we have named after the forbidden fruit of Paradise, go up and down. "Mister," they say, "please swallow; I want to see the elevator work."

Likewise, I like to have my lower limbs covered with flowing cloth. If I had to wear stockings I would probably be arrested for having no visible means of support. It is a joy to be able to conceal my shame. I know, also, that the bow-legged man sympathizes with me. Does he want to expose the fact that in his construction the builder forgot that the straight line is the shortest distance between two points? Does he want to betray the failure of his architect to keep his legs from wandering from the plumb, the one of them on the right and the other to the left. The knock-kneed man, too, has also his right to be considered.

As to puttees, they are binding and stiff, fine for out of doors, but not very elegant for the ballroom or the parlor.

No, Mr. Cobb, you have forgotten the skinny man. He will never agree to your reform. He is satisfied with the present dress, and not until he attains to the generous lines of your own personal pulchritude will he vote with you for a change.

—L. M. Chambers.

NO ACCIDENT WEEK JUNE 22 TO 29

By the afternoon of June 21 approximately 305,000 railroad men in the central western region had signed a pledge to go seven days, if possible, without sustaining a personal injury.

The week beginning June 22 has been designated by the regional director of railroads as "No-Accident Week" and according to a statement issued by Mr. H. A. Adams, regional supervisor of safety of the central western region, the lines under his jurisdiction approximately total 52,000 miles, with 305,000 men and women on the payrolls.

Back of this army of industrial workers who have decided to eliminate personal injuries are 400 Safety Committees, composed of both officers and employees, working under regulations prescribed by the United States railroad administration.

According to the employees themselves, who are taking a keen interest in it, says Mr. Adams, "No-Accident Week" is bound to give a big impetus to their safety work. The test is something concrete—something which they may attain definitely as a result of their efforts. This is causing considerable rivalry among the roads of employ-ees of being thus placed upon their mettle, together with the knowledge that even for a week they may prevent actual suffering or grief to any number of employees or their families, makes "No-Accident Week" well worth while.

Daily reports will be compiled by telegraph of progress made on every railroad in the central western region so that every employee will be advised as to what is being accomplished.

"DESTINY."

A gripping story of life as it will be shown at the American theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, Dorothy Phillips' latest picture, "Destiny."

Miss Phillips' first effort since her memorable appearance in "The Heart of Humanity" is assured of a cordial reception. It is described as an intensely dramatic offering, dealing with modern American life, and leading up to a tremendous climax.

This Jewel picture was directed by Rollin Sturgeon, who produced "God's Country and the Woman." It is based on a novel by Charles Neville Buck, the famous author, and the scenario was written by Elliott J. Clawson.

"Destiny" presents a memorable cast, including William Stowell, who was also Miss Phillips' leading man in "The Heart of Humanity," Harry Hilliard, formerly Theda Bara's leading man, Antrim Short, the boy actor featured in "The Yellow Dog," Walt Whitman, the celebrator character actor, Gertrude Astor, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Tom Ashton, Nanine Wright, Allan Sears and Edgar Sherrod.

The theme of the story deals with the results of an overweening lust for power. It is dealt with in a novel manner, after the fashion of such stage plays as "Roads of Destiny" and "The Eyes of Youth," in which parallel lines of action are followed out to widely different conclusions.

Curiosities of the Calendar.

It will be found that January always begins on the same day of the week as October, and the same is true of April and July, September and December. Again February, March and November also begin on the same day of the week. This, however, is only true in years of 365 days.

Paying the Penalty.

In a rash moment, "Bill" Stowell, the leading male character in "Destiny" now showing at the American theatre, rushed into print with a defense of bachelorhood and an announcement of his intention to claim its joys until the grave opened to protect him from feminine wiles. He's paying for it yet.

There is nothing that so irritates a woman as to have a man announce that he never intends to marry. That rather puts it up to her, as a sporting proposition, to make him eat his words. Multiply this plain statement of a psychological fact by the number of admirers of Stowell's screen work and you will appreciate the result.

Before his foolhardy statement, Stowell received mash notes by the peck. Now he gets them by the bushel. They come in every mail, and each contains more than a hint that the reason Stowell has not succumbed to the eternal feminine is because he didn't happen to run across the particular specimen that penned that letter. Many times the popular leading man has repented.

Stowell is one of the best known leading men on the screen. He served a long apprenticeship with other companies, after forsaking the stage, before he joined the Universal forces. His work in the leading male role in "The Heart of Humanity" will long be remembered and in "Destiny" which stars Dorothy Phillips, he has a part that approaches that of the star in importance.

July 4th at Allen

THE Commercial Club and citizens of Allen will give a big picnic and celebration on the 4th of July. Plans are made for the greatest affair of the kind ever staged in Pontotoc County. Money in abundance is behind the plan and success is already assured.

There are many interesting features on the program and interest will run at fever heat from the moment the curtain rises. Here are some of the events:

General Patriotic Demonstration.

A magnificent display of Fire Works at night, including some features never before shown in this section.

Music by one of the state's best Brass Bands.

Baseball games by some of the speediest teams of Southeastern Oklahoma.

Public Speaking by some of the state's leading orators.

Thrilling Races by Aeroplane and Automobiles. High-class aviators and car drivers are engaged for this big event.

The Allen Oil Field Here, You Ada Folks

No more interesting sight greets the eyes of any man than an oil field. There you may see the silent sources of wealth producing their harvest of gold, day in and day out, the year 'round. You may see the activities of rig builders, the operation of drilling machinery, the actual production of oil itself.

All this can be seen in the Allen oil fields. The rush and push after Midas' gold goes on uninterruptedly day and night. To see these things is an opportunity that comes to some people only once in a lifetime, and Allen people invite the whole world to embrace this opportunity on the Glorious Fourth.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT IN YOUR DAILY PAPER IS A SPECIAL INVITATION TO YOU TO VISIT YOUR NEIGHBOR TOWN. THE INTERESTS OF ALLEN AND ADA ARE ONE AND THE SAME; THE UPBUILDING OF PONTOTOC COUNTY, AND AT THE SAME TIME THE PROMOTION OF A FRIENDLY FEELING BETWEEN THE TWO TOWNS. WE CONFIDENTLY EXPECT ADA FOLKS BY THE HUNDREDS TO SPEND THE BIG HOLIDAY WITH US. THERE IS NOW A GOOD ROAD TO ALLEN VIA STEEDMAN, AND IT'S ONLY AN HOUR'S DRIVE.

Telephone No. 4.

If people in the summer time thought more about their jobs and less about the temperature, they wouldn't suffer so much from heat.

When they get the airplanes so simple of management that they can be used to sow wheat the back to the farm movement will gather force.

A baker in Kansas City will use an airplane to deliver bread to bakeries in surrounding towns. The price of bread has been so high that it will look good in an airplane.

"Why a carpet?" asks a household reformer, solicitous for summer comfort. To which inquiry it seems reasonable to add, "Why a coat?" Also "Why a collar?" And, except in the hottest of hot suns, "Why a hat?"

The public debt of the United States is $25,921,151,270. At the end of the Civil War the debt was less than two and a half billion dollars. Just before America's entrance into the Great War it was less than one billion dollars.

The red and black flags are outlawed by the first bill introduced in Congress to check Bolshevism. To advocate the overthrow of constitutional government by force or violence would be punishable by $5,000 fine, five years' imprisonment, or both.

At the National Women's Trade Union League meeting in Philadelphia, the platform demanded creation of an educational department to train women for equal jobs with men. Suffrage and restoration of the right of free speech, free press and free assembly were asked in resolutions passed. One hundred women labor leaders were present.

Why Not Owen?

McAlester News-Capital: The inspiration Carl Monk, county attorney, gave being some two or three months ago, when he suggested the name of Senator Robert L. Owen for President, has developed into a perfected plan. Oklahoma is lined up for the Senator now and an organization has been launched looking toward carrying the Oklahoma name before the people of the United States at large.

A few persons in this state have scoffed at the idea of Owen for President, all of which reminds us that no man is a prophet in his own country. Senator Owen is a national figure. He represents the highest of statesmanship, he advocates Democratic ideals to the letter and he has been a dominant figure in Washington for a long time. His handling of the Currency bill smacks of genius. His dealings with big business makes him eminently fitted to handle the financial affairs of the government. His intimacy with President Wilson fits him to take up the mantle of office when the present executive lays it down. He is from the West and the West is the section that controls the elections. Why not Owen?

Six Thousand Strikes.

Ada Star Democrat: The congressional record is authority for the statement that during our participation in the war, union labor pulled off six thousand strikes in the United States.

Striking for a dollar an hour while American boys were dying for a dollar a day!

When a certain department in Washington got behind with the work of sending out allowance checks to the dependents of soldiers, General Crowder ordered the clerks in that department to add an hour or two each day to the seven hours they were working. The clerks, who belonged to a union responded by walking out.

The soldier boys might bleed to death and their dependents might starve to death, but the clerks who had hid in a government department to avoid service in the trenches would not work an extra hour.

Men in Muskogee who want to work are beaten into pulp by strikers. Men in Oklahoma City who want to work are snatched from telegraph desks by mobs. Organized thugs are permitted to terrorize cities and murder citizens simply because politicians in office will not risk losing votes by enforcing the law.

Union labor fighting for a living wage and for decent working conditions deserves the commendation and assistance of the world.

But union labor taking advantage of a national peril and sandbagging a government fighting for a nation's life is twin brother to the red rabble of Moscow and Petrograd. Union labor assuming the attitude of the direct actionist is the enemy of the public and must be recognized as such unless it frees itself from the grip of the Bolshevik.

When the "Inner Light" Fails.

Oklahoma City News: Sampson was the "white hope" of the Israelites—back in the days when their enemies, the Philistines, made life simply one grand round of border skirmishes.

This giant's secret source of strength troubled the Philistines, so they got a woman—Delilah—to betray him. And Sampson "fell for her."

Then came the Philistines to take him captive, and Sampson stretched his limbs with his old-time confidence, expecting that he would again wipe the earth with his enemies.

But here's the scripture record: "He wist not that the Lord was departed from him."

And soon Sampson found himself in the Philistine prison, his eyes put out, grinding the corn of his enemies.

But before he lost the sight of his eyes, his "inner light" had failed. And it was this that brought him to his present trouble. The pathetic thing was that he didn't know it.

There are men today who were once powerful in their various fields of work—leaders, because of some unusual gift that enriched their souls.

But one day—because of sin or neglect—the inner light which had led them, failed. They continued to go through the motions—but those who knew them, pitied—for the old power had gone.

And yet—there's hope. Sampson "came back." So may you. How much do you really wish to?

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE PET DOGS.

"There were five dogs," said Daddy, "who belonged to a boy named Jack."

"What were their names?" asked Nancy.

"How could he have ever thought of so many names?" asked Nick.

"They were all named," said Daddy. "and I will tell you their names in the order in which their sizes ran."

"Brutus was the largest of all. He was a big Newfoundland dog. Next came Bogi, another Newfoundland dog, but not so large as Brutus. "Third came Patty, an Irish terrier. Then came Oujl, a cocker spaniel, and last came Susy, a little hunting dog. When they all stood together they looked like a flight of stairs, and just as though one could walk from Susy right up to Brutus."

"Ah," said Patty, "I see something coming my way."

"All the other dogs looked and Patty said, 'There is a bug and I'm going to catch it. I'm going to snap it up and swallow it down and enjoy it thoroughly.'"

"But the bug said to itself, 'I'll play a joke on that dog.' And the bug did play a joke, a very mean joke."

"Patty snapped at the bug and then was about to swallow it when she had gotten the bug on her tongue, when what should that mean bug do but turn itself over so it attached itself to Patty's tongue, and so Patty couldn't swallow it or eat it or anything!

"Poor Patty! And the bug hurt!"

"Oh, what shall we do?" Brutus said, as he looked at Patty out of his sad eyes, for Brutus was very kind even though he was such a great big dog and so strong.

"Then Brutus had a fine idea. He ran for Jack, for he had seen Jack go to a nearby field to play baseball. "He ran just as hard as he could and when he reached the field he didn't even notice the baseball which had just been hit with the bat."

"The boys were awfully frightened for a moment as they thought Brutus might get hit by accident with the hard ball, and they called out to him, but Brutus wasn't thinking of being afraid of anything.

"But luckily the ball didn't hit Brutus, and Brutus went right on up to his master, barking, and showing by his eyes that he wanted to have Jack follow him."

"I guess Brutus wants me for something," said Jack, "for he wouldn't come to the baseball field if it weren't for something important."

"So Jack ran quickly home, following Brutus. There he found Patty with the bug on her tongue and feeling most uncomfortable."

"Jack quickly took the bug off and then Patty no longer looked sick and miserable."

"She jumped up on Jack and wagged her tail and her eyes looked very glad and happy as she tried to thank her master. And then she did quite the sweetest thing ever a dog did. She suddenly seemed to know that Brutus was the one who had done everything."

"Jack had come quickly when Brutus had called him, for Jack was always so good to his pets, and Jack had been able to take the bug off her tongue because he had nice useful hands."

"But Patty knew that it was Brutus who had gone for Jack, and Brutus who had brought him back so quickly."

"And Patty went over to Brutus, looking so small beside the great big Newfoundland dog and she licked Brutus' paws and sat down before him and rolled over on the grass, saying to Brutus that she was a very grateful, happy, little dog."

"Brutus licked her, too, to show he was glad he had been able to help her, and all the other dogs played around so joyfully."

"And then, for a special treat, every one of them had a bone, and Jack gave himself a piece of cake!" ended Daddy.

Getting Started.

What school life does for us is to get us started. The girl who talks of "finishing" an education is heard from less frequently than she used to be. For even the young realize that the owner of a college diploma is little more than started on an education. If in school we learn to work sincerely and systematically. If we acquire logical habits of thinking, as well as methodical habits of work, we have made a good start. If, on the contrary, we shirk wherever we can, we are starting wrong.—Girl's Companion.

CUPID-CLAIRVOYANT

By EVA GOLDBERG.

The routine of Betty Hamilton's daily program brought her outside the door precisely at eight each morning. She delighted in the brisk, stimulating exercise, an appetizing prelude to the day's labor, and enjoyed watching the eight o'clock procession of workers whose faces had become familiar through such regular meeting.

Howard Morse, a newly established lawyer and a stranger in the city, was another fresh-air enthusiast, who preferred walking to street car congestion. For several mornings he had observed Betty as she crossed Gage avenue. There was something in her manner that invited acquaintance. It must have been this very something that prompted him to single her out of the many as one whom he cared to know. And he craved an introduction!

Strangely, too, with the natural curiosity that besets a newcomer in the neighborhood, Betty wondered, as they exchanged glances, who he might be and was anxious to meet him. Sort of mutual telepathy!

The Young Ladies' Aid, of which Miss Hamilton was social director, was running a novelty bazaar to raise funds for the entertainment of returning soldiers and sailors. Betty had often amused the members with her pet hobby of telling fortunes. Thus on this festive occasion she occupied a little booth and charged admission for her advice on affairs of the heart.

Whatever possessed Howard Morse to stroll into the bazaar, he himself knew not. Maybe, surrounded by gaiety and excitement, he could shake off that lonesome feeling. Yet should he seek the real truth, maybe he would encounter that captivating blue-eyed little lady. He sauntered into the dance hall—if she were here surely it would be proper to ask her to dance, an opportune moment for acquaintance! But no, she was not among the merry gliders. "Most likely she was not fond of dancing," he thought. He would quickly change his mind if he knew now, in that stuffy little booth, she longed to escape and keep time with the gay music.

The young attorney was not sentimental enough to patronize fortune-tellers. Had anyone ever suggested such a means of fathoming one's heart, he would have laughed in mockery. But, upon passing the oriental quarters, he decided to visit there if only for the sake of amusement. He would try his luck.

She affected a decided accent. "You are not long in this city," she began in a tone that almost frightened.

He nodded. In her interest she found it hard to concentrate. The silence perplexed him.

"Young man," she resumed, "I fear—I fear—"

"Any trouble ahead?" he interrupted nervously.

"I fear you are in love." This she told to all whose case it generally fitted.

"You've guessed it right," he smiled, pounding the small table.

What a delightful voice he had! She must tactfully urge him on to further conversation.

Before he realized it, he was confiding in her, unconscious of the fact that he was actually doing the telling of his own fortune. "And I never even spoke to the girl," he continued, "but I'm smitten—never believed in this love-at-first-sight business either—guess I've fallen though."

"Only yesterday I found out her name, when somebody walked over to greet her. Betty—Betty Hamilton; that's it. Now how am I going to meet her?"

When she discovered herself to be the object of his conversation, Betty was tempted to reveal her identity then and there; but no, she must not betray the madame's origin. What a strange predicament! Now for quick thought!

"Well," she suggested, "to show that I can help you out somehow, you might call at my office tomorrow evening, and I'll arrange an introduction; 30 Main street is the address."

He paid the fee and walked out, feeling silly to have aired his private affairs to some unknown woman. Just the same, he would venture to call the next evening.

Mrs. Hamilton answered the door-bell. "Is Madame Sphinx in, please? Is this her office? I saw no sign." The young man was beginning to feel embarrassed at sight of the kind-faced woman's roguish smile. After all, he might be making a fool of himself.

He was ushered into the living room where Betty received him.

"Good evening, Mr. Morse," she volunteered.

"Er—er," he fumbled for words. "She hasn't told you anything about it, has she? The madame—"

"I haven't heard a word from a soul," she assured him.

He was so innocent in his remarks that guilty Betty could not refrain from disclosing the secret to her interested, puzzled listener.

He drew a long breath, sighed partly out of amazement, partly out of pleasure. Grasping the dainty hand he confessed: "Well, that's one on me, but the outcome is worth it."

Suffice it to say that the eight o'clock procession is now minus one of its happy faces, whose form of exercise has evolved to household duties.

Tolbert-Threlkeld.

One of the most brilliant society events of the year was consummated at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Threlkeld Sunday night at 10 o'clock when their daughter, Miss Grace, was united in marriage to Mr. Ben S. Tolbert.

The Threlkeld apartment was a mass of beautiful flowers, carrying out the color scheme of pink and white. The florist who was given carte blanc in the profusion of flowers used, was assisted by the bridesmaids in the artistic arrangements of the masses of ferns, smilax and pink and white sweet peas which, under the softly shaded light, presented an effect bewilderingly beautiful.

On the stroke of the hour, to the strains of the Mendelssohn Wedding March, played by Miss Mildred Miller, the bridesmaids, Miss Vera MacMillan and Miss Mae Miller, entered dressed in white organdy, over finish silk, wearing large hats of pink and white tulle and carrying bouquets of pink sweet peas. They were followed by Mrs. Orel Busby, matron of honor and sister of the bride, on the arm of Mr. Ralph MacMillan, best man. Then came the groom with his beautiful bride, wonderfully gowned in ivory satin, entrained, wearing a tulle veil held in place by orange blossoms. The bride and groom took their place in front of a floral altar canopied with smilax and pink carnations.

Rev. C. V. Dunn performed the ceremony in an unusually impressive manner, telling, in a very beautiful way, of woman's reparation to man for having deprived him of his original Eden by the loving gift of her heart and life.

A number of beautiful gifts were received, one of the most prized being a sterling silver tea set presented by Mr. Tolbert's "Buddies in the Army."

The bride is a brilliant, highly educated young woman who adds to the richness of her literary gifts the charm of an interesting and lovable personality. She is a graduate of our E. C. S. N. and after a course at Leland Stanford University became for a time a member of the Normal faculty, resigning to accept a more lucrative position in the Ada High school.

The groom is one of Ada's best known and most popular young men, his family having been prominently identified with the business and social interests of the city since its infancy. He answered the call to the colors, as a volunteer, immediately after war was declared, being honorably discharged as a non-commissioned officer a few weeks ago.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Dallas, carrying with them the good wishes of a host of friends and baggage, interestingly and appropriately decorated by a bevy of young people headed by Hugh Biles whose skill as an artist was fully sustained in the brilliant red hearts under a proper insignia.

The many friends of these interesting young people will be pleased to know that they will return after a few days to make their home in Ada.

Nature has placed one of her curiosities on the location of a former sugar mill on the island of Trinidad. The plant has since been reduced to ruins and is overgrown with vegetation. The old solid chimney is intact and up through its center one of the quick growing trees of the tropics has sprung, spreading its branches out of the top of the huge chimney and is now in full bloom.

REPATRIATE 500,000 RUSSIAN PRISONERS

U. S. Medical Officers Supervise Work of Sending Men Home From German Camps.

The task of repatriating approximately 500,000 Russian prisoners in the twenty camps in Germany which have been under the supervision of American army medical officers began a few days ago, according to word received by the branch of the American Red Cross at Coblenz. The work of sending these prisoners of war back to Russia began in accordance with the decision of the allied armistice commission at Spa, and advice received at Coblenz indicate the undertaking will soon be completed.

The Americans connected with relief work among Russian prisoners number more than 1,000. The principal duties of the Americans are to see that the Russians are properly fed and to supervise camp sanitation. Food shipments, handled by the American Red Cross, have been passing through Coblenz for several weeks, but these will cease soon and it is expected that within two months all American missions and soldiers in Germany who have been connected with relief work among Russian prisoners will be out of enemy territory.

Allied relief work at the various Russian camps was decided upon several months ago by the allies as a precaution against half a million Russians returning to the native land and joining the bolsheviks. Under the plan that is being followed, the Russians are being released in small groups and sent to various parts of the country and transported to their homes. In this way there is no danger of their joining the bolsheviks in large bodies. It is believed by officers. The difficulty attendant on shipping food across Germany also was one of the reasons for the decision to repatriate the Russians as soon as possible.

Gypsies Arrested Upon a Charge of Petit Larceny.

George Vono, N. Adams and Annie Miller, members of a band of gypsies who were arrested recently at their camp, two miles east of Texarkana, Ark., on charges of petit larceny, pleaded guilty in the Municipal court and were fined $23 each, including costs, and given two days in jail. It was charged that they "filched" two negroes out of $7.25 while telling their fortunes.

They advised their victims that it would bring them good luck if they would let the seeress blow in their pocketbooks. When they looked at their purses a short time later the negroes discovered their money was gone.

The party has three high powered automobiles, all carrying Arkansas license tags for 1919. They are natives of Brazil, but they say they have been in this country several years.

Make Themselves Clothes.

Among the animal tailors are the smooth caterpillars. Naked and unarmed, their extreme vulnerability places them at the mercy of numerous enemies; but many families of them are remarkable for making little sheaths or garments for the protection of their bodies, notably the silk-worm, than whom the lilies of the field are not more gorgeously arrayed.

HOW MOTOR-VEHICLE REVENUE IS USED

The increase in motor-car registration and revenues in the United States during the past dozen years represents some interesting comparisons. This is especially true in respect to the use made of the revenues. In 1906 the total registrations were approximately 48,000 cars, paying a gross revenue of about $193,000, or roughly the same as the returns from the District of Columbia for the year 1918. Furthermore, in 1906 the gross registration revenues represented less than three-tenths of 1 per cent of the total rural road and bridge expenditures for that year. In 1918 the motor-vehicle revenues represented approximately 21 per cent of the total bridge expenditures for that year. Furthermore, while in 1906 practically none of the motor-vehicle revenues were applied to road construction or maintenance, in 1918 nearly 91 per cent of the gross returns, or $46,935,691, were devoted to this purpose in 46 states, and of the total amount applied to road work 77 per cent, or $36,161,473, was expended more or less directly under the control or supervision of the state highway departments.

The man who never gets out of sight of the tall buildings, as well

table. Bad roads adds to the cost of transportation, but good roads cut marketing costs.

From the time when farm products were first hauled in wagons to markets there has been an interest in better roads as a means of reducing the cost of transportation, but improved highways mean more now because of the extensive use of motor trucks in hauling products from the farm to the railroad station or direct to the city markets. Trucks are not only replacing horse transportation but in many cases they are supplementing and even doing the work of railroads. In fact, motor trucks offer a solution of modern transportation problems, but roads built only for horse-drawn vehicles or light automobiles will break down under heavy motor traffic.

Maintenance of thousands of miles of roads so that the enormous government and commercial truck traffic of the past two years could move has taxed the abilities and called forth every energy and plan on the part of highway officials. In many states officials found themselves without sufficient funds to handle properly the repair and rebuilding work necessary. Nearly all of them had to struggle under the handicap of an insufficient labor supply, and all had to meet the increased cost of labor and material.

War Lessons Aid in Peace. Only a few states were unaffected by the restrictions on the supply and transportation of materials which had to be brought from a distance. None escaped the difficulties which followed the great and never before. Improved roads will tenance and construction. In several states high type roads, which had originally been constructed without sufficient foundation to meet the new demands, had to be rebuilt, and part of this construction work was carried on while the heavy traffic was kept moving.

The extensive use of motor trucks for transportation during war time has emphasized the possibilities of well-built roads as a means of marketing farm and other products. Solving road problems when there was a constant procession of heavily loaded trucks traveling over them has been a great lesson to road officials, which will be put to good use in peace times.

The federal aid road-building program for this year is the most stupendous in the history of the world. The expenditures for road construction for the year are likely to reach $500,000,000. Plans have been made for the construction of continuous highway systems, the states through which the highways are to pass co-operating with each other as not terminate at state lines, but will run from one large marketing center to another.

Free Trucks, Added Transportation. More than $45,000,000 worth of motor trucks, to be used in road construction work, will be distributed by the Secretary of Agriculture through the Bureau of Public Roads to the state highway departments. These trucks, about 20,000 in number, have been declared surplus by the war department, and all that the states must do to acquire them is to pay the loading and freight charges. The trucks range in capacity from two to five tons, 11,000 of them are new, and all are declared to be in serviceable condition. They will be apportioned to the states only upon request of the state highway departments on the basis of a request received from the respective states with the apportionment provided in the federal aid law approved in 1916. The requirements of the law are such that none of the trucks will be distributed to counties or individuals. Further interest in the nationwide need for good roads is shown by the fact that shortly before the last session of congress adjourned that body made an extra appropriation of $209,000,000 in the post-office appropriation bill to meet the federal part of the road-building program. This is the largest appropriation ever made by any government for a similar purpose, say road officials of the Department of Agriculture.

"DESTINY."

"Dorothy Phillips' first Jewel picture since the memorable 'Heart of Humanity' will be seen Tuesday at the American theatre. It is called 'Destiny' and it is based on a widely-read novel by Charles Neville Buck, the noted author.

'Destiny' presents several novelities. In the first place, the leading man, William Stowell, is Miss Phillips' brother instead of the customary sweetheart, the latter part being played by Harry Hilliard, once Theda Bara's leading man.

In the second place, the picture presents parallel lines of action, starting from the same point and arriving at widely separated conclusions, as in the stage technique of such present-day playwrights as Max Marcin, Samuel Shipman and Channing Pollock.

'Destiny' in its main line of progress, shows the results of Stowell's overweening lust for power and determination to conquer the world. This ambition, presented in a laudable light at first, is gradually transformed into an evil thing, which wrecks the lives of those dearest to him, and his own. Then the alternative development of the theme is shown.

The picture is presented with an admirable cast, including beside those already named, Gertrude Astor, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Walt Whitman, Antrim Short, Tom Ashton, Nanine Wright, Allan Sears and Edgar Sherrod. It was directed by Follin Sturgeon from a scenario by Elliott J. Clawson.

Bring in that picture and let me frame it for you.—C. A. Cummins.

FRIENDS AND PATRONS:

The statements I have made show you that some of my troubles result from the demand of ice delivery in such small quantities, that the price we get does not pay for the service—you want your ice delivered by noon, which means that we must have enough delivery outfits to cover the entire city in the forenoon, thus doubling the quantity that would be needed if the deliveries were distributed throughout the day, and doubling the cost of service.

The Government Food Administration, after investigating these matters, recommended the elimination of number of wasteful methods in order to avoid the necessity of increasing the price of ice, especially to working people and small consumers. These recommendations will work to your benefit, and among them are these:

That ice be distributed upon coupons to all customers as nearly as possible.

That a large part of the small sales be made from local ice boxes, or at the wagon instead of attempting delivery into houses.

These rules enable them to maintain service, and give good values, and benefits the customer, and are based upon years of experience of the people in the industry.

Also, special deliveries to residences which cost always more than the amount realized from the same are entirely discontinued except in case of sickness.

This is the help we ask of you now: namely, BUY COUPONS, and for minimum quantities of 25 pounds—as much more as you can afford.

"DESTINY" IS A TENSE

STORY OF MODERN LIFE

"Destiny," a photoplay based on a novel by Charles Neville Buck, was the production chosen for Dorothy Phillips as a successor to her great success, "The Heart of Humanity," showing Tuesday night at the American theatre, it won general commendation.

"Destiny" has an intensely dramatic theme. It deals with the conflict between a sister, played by Miss Phillips, and her brother, played by William Stowell, in which the latter's lust for power brings ruin to himself and others. As in several late stage plays, two parallel lines of action are shown. Had a certain choice been made at a certain time in the play's course, one set of consequences would have resulted. Had another choice been made a very different set of consequences would have followed.

Directed by Rollin Sturgeon from a scenario supplied by Elliott J. Clawson, "Destiny" at all times compels closest interest.

From the outset, one feels that he is watching the actions and gauging the emotions of real human beings, and the production strikes one rather as a cross-section view of life itself than as a photoplay of fictitious characters.

This is largely due, no doubt to the direction and to the acting of Miss Phillips and her leading man. But credit must be given also to the other members of an unusually well-chosen cast.

Antrim Short and Tom Ashton, who play the part of Mary Burton's two brothers, in boyhood, are two exceedingly likeable and unaffected youths. Their parts are taken later in the play by Stowell and Stanhope Wheatcroft, successively, and Wheatcroft's performance is well worthy of rank beside that of the leading man.

Then there are Harry Hilliard, formerly Theda Bara's leading man, who supplies the love interest, as Mary Burton's sweetheart, Walt Whitman, the celebrated character actor, Gertrude Astor, Nanine Wright, Allan Sears and Edgar Sherrod, who together make up as interesting a cast as has been seen in many days.

AN APPEAL TO OKLA. WOMEN

MISS ANNIE MORGAN APPEALS TO THEM FOR AID IN THE "FOR FRANCE WEEK" DRIVE.

"If the people of your good state could see the distressingly pitiful condition of the people in the devastated area in France, I know that they would give quickly and generously. And let me emphasize this fact; hat unless quick and generous aid does come from America, great numbers will die from malnutrition. Your Fourth of July program is splendid. I sincerely trust the women of your state will actively support the effort you are heading, because after all this is largely a woman's organization and our work is for women, children and the home."

ANNE MORGAN.

The above cable was received by J. J. McGraw, State Chairman of the American Committee for Devastated France from Miss Anne Morgan, Vice President and Commissioner in France of the American Committee for Devastated France.

In an accompanying statement Mr. McGraw says:

"As Miss Morgan points out, this organization is largely a woman's organization. It is interesting to know that of the more than one hundred field workers in France, each one is a woman. In addition, $250,000 of the budget for this year goes to the American Woman's Hospital, which conducts thirteen free dispensaries, hospitals, medical and nursing service to the 50,000 inhabitants in that portion of the province of the Aisne assigned to this committee.

About the only thing mere man has to do with this organization is where officials of the French government approve all efforts undertaken, and where members of the National organization approve the expenditures and help to secure the funds on which the organization runs. The work, as stated in Miss Morgan's cable, is done largely by women for women and children and for the home.

"A returned soldier, who during the German drive, a little more than a year ago, was assigned to this committee to help evacuate the inhabitants, tells of his experience as follows:

"The inhabitants appear to worship Miss Morgan and her workers. Time after time in excommunicating people from the villages, the Germans would be within a mile—once they were within a half mile of us. The peasants would not want to leave, or if they were willing to go, they would want to take all kinds of ridiculous things with them such as wheelbarrows, goats, chickens and clocks. They would pay no attention to what I or my associates would tell them, but it never took more than thirty seconds for one of Miss Morgan's workers or Miss Morgan herself to convince them that they should hurriedly get into the waiting machines. They would follow the workers of this committee around like dogs, ready to do anything they were told, accepting their judgment at all times no matter what the question might be."

"Perhaps the above is partly the reason that the French government has seen fit to award the croix de guerre to Miss Morgan and fifteen of her field workers.

"Women in Oklahoma who are not able to perform such service abroad, can perform a most necessary and valuable service at home by helping to secure the $100,000 quota during the week of July Fourth," concluded Mr. McGraw.

"Be sure to hear Bob Whitson and other good numbers of the Francis Chautauqua, June 23, 24 and 25." 6-18-7f

Important Announcement.

Announcement is hereby made of an important change in the directorship and management of the Sterling Motor Supply Company. The plant of Emory Bros., on 12th street, has been combined with that of the Sterling Motor Supply Company, making the stock of the company one of the largest in this part of the country. Thomas P. Holt, L. T. Walters and R. F. Smith have severed their connection with the company and resigned from the Board of Directors, and J. T. Emory, Mont Emory and W. H. Nettles have been duly elected to the directorship to fill the vacancies thus made. The new Board of Directors now consists of James R. Hounshell, president; Mont Emory, vice-president; J. T. Emory, secretary-treasurer, and W. H. Nettles, all of Ada, and J. W. Ragland, of Oakman.

The two plants will be combined at the large building of Emory & Norman, on 12th street, near the old postoffice corner. All members of the said Board of Directors will be actively engaged in the management of the company with the exception of Mr. Ragland.

The vulcanizing plant of the new company has at last arrived and has been installed and the company is now ready to do all kinds of vulcanizing work. All the active directors are experienced tire men and know the business from A to Z. This company has from three to four hundred stockholders scattered over Pontotoc, Coal, Murray, Johnson and Garvin counties. With the new combination its success is assured. 6-18-6td 11w

BIG BUSINESS ALL SUMMER

EVERY INDICATION POINTS TO PROSPEROUS TIMES IN ADA AND PONTOTOC COUNTY.

There is now every indication that business will be flourishing throughout the summer months, and that there will be no dull times in Ada this year.

Binders are entering the big wheat fields this week, and from almost every direction you can hear the click of machinery and the shout of the farmer as he harvests one of the greatest crops in the history of Oklahoma.

The oat crop is coming on in fine shape with brilliant prospects for a most bountiful yield, and that, too, in the face of the fact that the acreage is much larger this year than last.

The corn crop is said to be fine. The rains have been ideal and kept the crop in a healthy growing condition, and barring all adversities, the crop will yield an average of from forty to sixty bushels per acre, which is a very conservative estimate.

Alfalfa is coming on for the second cutting, and this crop will evidently be better than the first, as that crop was damaged some by the continued rains.

These are crops which are in sight, and which promises bountiful yields. Then there is the big fruit crop, consisting of apricots, peaches, apples, plums, to say nothing of the cherry and berry crop.

With the high prices prevailing for all these crops there is every indication that prosperity will swell the breezes and that the river of wealth will overflow and fill every purse in Ada and Pontotoc county. Surely this will be one summer in which every live business man in Ada will experience no dull days.

Masonic Banquet Tuesday Evening

That the event planned by the Masonic lodge of Ada for next Tuesday evening will be one of unrivalled success is assured by the arrangements already perfected. It is the purpose of those who have matters in charge to make of the affair the most brilliant entertainment of the kind ever staged in our city.

All Masons within the Ada jurisdiction, as well as the members of the Eastern Star and their husbands, are most cordially invited, and it is a certainty that the attendance will be all that could be wished.

At 7 o'clock p. m. a most sumptuous repast will be served in the dining room of the Baptist church. The eatables for this occasion are being furnished by the members of the fraternity and their wives, and the arrangements are being made by the Eastern Star.

After dinner the following program will be carried out, Bro. C. C. Morris acting as toastmaster. Invocation—Bro. W. M. Crutchfield.

CLAUD JONES ANSWERS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Claud Jones has filed in the district court an answer to the petition of Thelma Jones for divorce filed last week. The answer is somewhat spicy and is about as given below:

The defendant now coquies and for his answer to the petition filed by the plaintiff herein against him says:

That he denies each and every allegation therein contained except that they were married as stated in the petition and that they lived together as man and wife until the date stated in said petition.

The defendant says that the plaintiff and he have not lived peaceably together from shortly after their marriage until the time of their separation, except at times when the defendant could completely separate the plaintiff from the company of her mother, that shortly after the plaintiff and this defendant were married the plaintiff began complaining at this defendant, and the defendant would try to please her in every way possible for him and that after she would be grumble and tantalize this defendant, and at times the plaintiff would bring her said mother into the company of this defendant and the said mother would abuse this defendant so as to make his life miserable. Defendant says that because of the conduct of the plaintiff he is entitled to be divorced.

Defendant for his cross petition says:

That he is the second husband of this plaintiff, she having been married and divorced prior to her marriage to this defendant and that the mother of plaintiff has according to the information of this defendant been married to her fourth husband and has been divorced from two of her husbands.

Defendant says and upon that belief alleges the truth to be that the mother of said plaintiff has caused all the trouble between this defendant and the plaintiff, and the defendant says that the plaintiff has often told him that she has been married before she was married to this defendant, and that she had married a good man who was a member of the Masonic order, also the Odd Fellows and the Woodmen, but that her mother had induced her to leave him, and from him secure a divorce.

Defendant says he has done all in his power to make the plaintiff happy, that she has not been restricted in her accounts, and that he has been a true and faithful husband to her and is without fault in this matter. That he has paid bills for her that were contracted before his marriage to her, and that she failed to properly keep the home this defendant would furnish her, etc.

That the plaintiff has many times cursed this defendant and has called him vile names in public and in private, that she was most all the time of the past year or two in a violent state of mind and would at times act like a mad person, having no regard for this defendant or for any other person or persons in whose company she might be when she became mad.

For all these and other reasons life has become a burden to this defendant and she asks for divorce from her.

WILL PREACH CONSTRUCTIVE WORK

reasonably well known, but there are vast beds of cement, shales and clays, brick and tile materials, building stone of various kinds with great possibilities along horticultural lines, splendid opportunities for the stock raiser, mineral waters, a fine climate and good transportation facilities.

In the central section the cotton belt of the south and the wheat belt meet and in the same field can be grown the wheat of the Walli Walli valley and the cotton of Texas. Fruits grow in abundance, as will grapes and berries. There is much oil and gas development; mineral waters are found in numerous localities; good building stone and clays and shales are available and this section is not supporting one one-hundredth part of the population of which it is capable of supporting.

South Central.

In the south central section are the asphalt beds in the vicinity of Ardmore; the granite fields of Tishomingo; large deposits of iron ore, oil and gas, mineral waters, building materials of various kinds plus good climatic conditions; a fine stock raising section; great agricultural possibilities; some lead and zinc in the Arbuckle Hills, and wonderful opportunities for the home seeker in almost any line of business.

Northwestern.

In the northwest section are the great salt plains, the great mountains of gypsum suitable for making plaster paris, a wonderful stock country, boundless acres of fine wheat lands, mineral waters and good locations for fruit and berry farms. Substantially the same resources are found in the middle western section, while in the southwestern sections oil and gas, granite, gypsum, great agricultural possibilities are the natural home for the stock man and rancher, with possibly small mineral deposits of the previous metals.

A Great Combination.

"With such a combination in this state as is possessed by probably no other commonwealth of the nation, Oklahoma offers opportunities in various lines unexcelled on the continent. The population of this state could be increased 100 per cent in five years by the proper publication and proper distribution of literature carefully edited; truthfully portraying its wonderful possibilities. There should be some way found by which from the state funds a sum could be annually appropriated for the publication and distribution of facts of Oklahoma's possibilities, but in the absence of this, our organization will undertake the work and do the best it can in acquainting the nation with Oklahoma's wonderful assets.

Badly Edited.

"The state has been up to the present time badly edited. Most of the feature stories sent out from Oklahoma to the metropolitan press have been those having to do with bold bad outlaws, with a character sketch of 'Six Pistol Pete,' and 'Eat 'Em Up Jake'; with a windstorm dignified with the title of cyclone; with a personal controversy between two men featured either as a race riot or a great feud; with an exaggeration of lawlessness, almost unbelievable and with little of the facts which would have a tendency to attract a good citizen to the state. It will be the policy of our organization," continued Mr. Douglas, "to counteract this vicious publicity of the past years and to properly place the state, its people and the resources in the record of public opinion nationally where it belongs and to make of it the best known state of the most wonderful opportunities in the union."

Mrs. Val H. Murrell and little son, Val H. Jr., of Dorchester, Tex., have arrived for a two weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Harmon Ebey, 231 West Seventeenth.

Senator R. H. Chase of Seminole, is in the city today visiting his wife and son. Mrs. Chase is staying here looking after their son who is attending the normal.

Corporal Christopher Columbus Coleman who has just returned with the 142nd Infantry from France was in the city Sunday visiting his sister, Mrs. Cora Coleman, who is attending the Normal.

Mrs. Ben Lee, better known to her friends as Miss Vera Boggan, left Sunday morning for Weleetka to meet her husband who is soon to arrive there from overseas. Mr. and Mrs. Lee will visit in Weleetka before returning here.

Leslie Prince arrived Sunday with his discharge, having served a year in France with the 142nd infantry. The many friends of Prince are glad to see him resume his old position at the M. & P. bank.

THE CITY LAKE A POPULAR SPOT

More than three hundred people were seen at the city lake, Sunday afternoon. This very pleasant spot is fast becoming the most popular outing place in the country. For fishing and swimming it simply can't be beaten. Each afternoon during the week parties can be seen winding their way in that direction with well filled baskets and fishing tackle.

This is the season of the year for all out door sports to flourish and the lake, like the wicked siren she is, beckons one and all to her banks like the old swimming hole of long ago.

MRS. WEBB HURT IN BRUSH ENTANGLEMENT

Mrs. Webb, better known as Auntie Webb, of 115 East Fifteenth while returning home last night from one of the neighbors, where she had been visiting, fell and broke her arm. The accident occurred at the corner of Fifteenth and Broadway. The fall seemed to be the result of becoming entangled in some of the brush that protrudes over the sidewalk at this corner.

Mrs. Webb, not being quite so docile as in her younger days, lay for some twenty or thirty minutes before regaining consciousness so that she could get a doctor to bind her wounds.

Her arm was broken near the wrist. She is doing nicely today.

Let a Want Ad get it for you.

Lions Club.

The Lions Club of Ada, will have its regular luncheon tomorrow at 11 o'clock in the dining room of the Harris hotel. The meeting will be devoted to the Boy Scout movement and a program has been arranged along that line. All members who are unable to attend should phone Chas. L. Orr, the secretary, before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

In Africa a crop of the blackest, curliest, closest hair imaginable makes a girl the belle of the kraal, especially if she be plump, with piggy eyes, thick lips, a nose like an India rubber shoe, and a skin that shines like a cooking stove.

No Sir:

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A STANDARD SIZE TO BE PROPERLY FITTED IN READY-MADE CLOTHES.

Our chummiest customers are men who grew up along their own ideas and landed in the middle of life with what a tailor would call "special specifications."

We take men as they come and buy clothes to fit them when they get here and we don't care a rap how exclusively formed a fellow is on the surface, if he's a good sport on the interior to try anything once and give us a chance — he'll never go back to the tailor's and stand for try-ons.
